CORONER CONTINUES PROBE OF CHARRED TORSO FOUND IN BARN

MISSING BONES MAY LEAD TO DISCOVERY
VICTIM WAS KILLED

Identity Of Victim
Sought—Coroner
Visits Scene

Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, coroner, went to Osborn Wednesday afternoon to continue his investigation into the finding of the charred torso of a man in the ruins of the barn of Edward Holsman, tenant farmer, on the military reservation, destroyed by fire Monday night.

The coroner will investigate the report that a man carrying a shot gun, was seen in the vicinity of the barn late Monday afternoon. The metal parts of a shot gun were found near the remains of the man discovered in the debris of the burned barn.

Chambliss will also question Holsman regarding a report that he was alarmed by his dog barking shortly before the fire and armed with a shot gun, made an investigation. The search is reported to have been fruitless. The coroner also hopes that interest caused by the case in Osborn and Fairfield may have resulted in bringing forth information which would either result in identification of the victim or open a clew to a missing person, through which the identity may be traced.

Whether the coroner will order an inquest into the death of the man will be determined by what tangible evidence he may be able to uncover in his preliminary investigation at the scene. At present three theories are advanced by Coroner Chambliss:

1.—That the victim was a hunter who wandered into the barn to rest and accidentally fired it while smoking;

2.—That the victim was a "hobo," who intended spending the night in the haymow;

3.—That the torso was that of a man killed at some other place and placed in the barn.

The remains of the shot gun supports the theory that the man was a hunter and not a hobo. The salvaged parts indicate the gun was a single shot, sixteen-gauge shot gun named the Victor Plain and manufactured by the American Gun Co., New York. It contained one shell, which had been exploded.

The theory that man may have been slain at some other place and the body placed in the barn and burned to prevent discovery, is supported by the fact that the leg and arm bones are missing. Careful search of the ruins failed to produce these bones and Dr. Chambliss believes that these bones would not have been completely destroyed by the fire since the lighter skull bones, were not completely burned.

The rest of the body was so completely destroyed by the fire it is impossible to determine the man's age or whether he was white or colored.

RABBIT'S DISEASE KILLS DAYTON MAN

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 30.—"Tularaemia," or so called rabbit's disease which yesterday caused the death of Fulton Williams, will be investigated by federal laboratories at Washington, D. C., according to authorities here today.

Samples of the man's blood are being sent to Washington for analysis. The disease is contracted from the handling of the intestines of infected rabbits or squirrels or by the bite of a tick which had infected such rodents. The disease is very rare, and is believed to be the first case in this locality.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Thomas W. Thompson, an American, has been captured by Mexican bandits and is being held for five thousand pesos ransom, according to a message to the state department today from the American consul at Mazatlan. Thompson was captured on Nov. 28 on his mining property near Copala, in Sinaloa, the message said. Friends are negotiating for his ransom, and Mexican federal troops are trailing the abductors.

WILL DEMAND INQUIRY OF SLUSH FUND CHARGES BY CONGRESS

Row Revived When Illinois Solon Attacks Statement Of Head Of National Council Of State Legislatures

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The row over "slush fund" charges in the fight for repeal of the federal inheritance tax broke out afresh today when President John H. Kirby of the National Council of State Legislatures declared that only $12,160.00 was spent by his organization to bring "lobbyists" to Washington.

The statement was immediately attacked by Rep. Henry T. Rainey, (D) of Illinois, originator of the "slush fund" charge, who asserted that Kirby was attempting to deceive the public in his report.

2.—That the victim was a "hobo," who intended spending the night in the haymow;

3.—That the torso was that of a man killed at some other place and placed in the barn.

The remains of the shot gun supports the theory that the man was a hunter and not a hobo. The salvaged parts indicate the gun was a single shot, sixteen-gauge shot gun named the Victor Plain and manufactured by the American Gun Co., New York. It contained one shell, which had been exploded.

The theory that man may have been slain at some other place and the body placed in the barn and burned to prevent discovery, is supported by the fact that the leg and arm bones are missing. Careful search of the ruins failed to produce these bones and Dr. Chambliss believes that these bones would not have been completely destroyed by the fire since the lighter skull bones, were not completely burned.

The rest of the body was so completely destroyed by the fire it is impossible to determine the man's age or whether he was white or colored.

MEXICO ACCUSED OF PROPOSING SECRET TREATY WITH JAPAN

Would Allow Colonists
Under Promise Of Support In War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Calles of Mexico proposed a secret treaty to Japan last year providing for unlimited Japanese colonization in Mexico, with the understanding that these colonists would be available for military use in the event of war with the United States, the Washington Herald asserted today.

The Herald published the facsimile of a draft memorandum which it asserts Calles sent to Tokyo proposing the treaty. The principal provisions were that Japan was to have the right of unrestricted immigration to Mexico, that the immigrants should "have some military training," and "that in the unfortunate case of a foreign war (Mexico) may demand from them co-operation in the struggle."

The memorandum set forth that Mexico had already negotiated a secret treaty with the liberal revolutionists of Nicaragua, granting Mexico colonization rights in territories contiguous to the proposed new Nicaraguan canal, and that some of the Japanese colonists might be diverted to Nicaragua.

The Mexican embassy, in a formal statement, asserted that the documents being published in the Herald are forged.

BIG PROGRAM FACES SOLONS

NEW CONGRESS WILL HAVE BUSY SESSION AT OPENING MONDAY

Coming Election To Add To Importance of
New Meeting

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A far-reaching program of legislation, investigation, appropriation, election contests and politics today awaited the opening gong of the seventieth congress next Monday.

The activity of the new congress will carry the quadrennial significance that usually goes to a session on the eve of a presidential election. Its leaders predicted a turbulent future, much like that of the sixty-eighth congress four years ago when the oil scandals were first unearthed. Party politics were expected to play a dominant role in as much as the Republicans hold only a paper majority, and cannot legislate without Democratic help.

While the house will plunge immediately into its legislative program, the senate faces the necessity of disposing of the election contests against Senators-Elect Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, and William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, before attempting legislative activity. Because of this, senate leaders anticipate little legislation until after the Christmas holidays.

In the house, Republican leaders placed the new tax bill, the $100,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill and the Alien property bill on their opening program.

Supply bills will have the usual right of way, however, even over this legislation. Flood control, Boulder Dam and farm relief bill were placed in a second group while Muscle Shoals legislation, a new merchant marine bill and a "big navy" bill were put in a third group.

Unless the leaders are disappointed, this entire program will be enacted by the house before next summer's adjournment.

The senate faces an entirely different situation. Democratic leaders have served notice they will seek to keep Smith and Vare from taking their oaths of office when the senate meets Monday. This will project an immediate fight over seating both men.

The contest may even prevent President Coolidge delivering his annual message to congress next Tuesday as under the senate's rules no other business can be transacted until these contests are settled. The rule, however, may be waived to hear the president's message.

Republican leaders hope that both contests will be terminated before Christmas. This would delay the senate's legislative program one month, although some supply bills might be enacted before that by unanimous consent.

A flood of investigations appeared on the senate horizon with prospects that the old Democratic-Independent alliance would be revived, just as it existed four years ago, to authorize various inquiries. The most important of the proposed investigations will be an inquiry into the so-called electric power trust, proposed by Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D) of Montana. At the same time, Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska will sponsor a resolution authorizing a revival of the oil investigation, to be directed toward learning what became of a $3,000,000 fund raised by the Continental Trading Company, mentioned in the Fall-Sinclair oil trial. Of this sum, about $260,000 was traced to former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

Other members of the ways and means committee who backed the Rainey assault upon the lobby declared that "liberal expenses" were paid to delegates who came from far-distant parts of the country. The committee refused to recommend repeal of the tax.

YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR STEALING AUTO

BATAVIA, Ill., Nov. 30.—Arrested here early today on a charge of stealing an auto at Cincinnati, two 16-year-old boys of that city, Victor Lewis and John Smith were being held in jail here awaiting arrival of Cincinnati authorities.

Police said the boys admitted taking the car, a physician's auto, from in front of the Bethesda hospital at Cincinnati. The machine, a Cadillac coupe, 1927 model, bore license number 239,271.

BAR BLACK BOTTOM

ROME, Nov. 30.—What in Italian corresponds to the familiar American "Hey! Hey!" and other noises indicating a jazzy dance enjoyment are to interest Italian army officers no more.

The war ministry today forbade officers from dancing the Charleston, shimmy and black bottom.

It was pointed out that these dances are "exotic" and offer unseemly contrast with the austerity of military tradition.

The New Ford Car will sell at a SURPRISINGLY LOW PRICE

Complete details of the new car which will be officially announced this FRIDAY

THE MINUTE you see the pictures of the new Ford car you will be delighted with its low, smart lines and the artistic color combinations. There, you will say, is a truly modern car.

But a still greater thrill awaits you when you slip into the roomy seat behind the wheel and start away for your first ride. Then you will know that you have found the most unusual value ever offered in a low-price car.

You will like the feeling of speed and power that the new Ford gives you—the comfortable, prideful feeling that comes from having a car worthy of any occasion and equal to every emergency.

You will like the flexibility and safety of the new Ford car as you weave in and out of city traffic—its flashing pick-up as the light turns green and the sign says "Go." You will like its smooth, quiet steadiness on the open road where you can lazy along according to your mood, or do 55 and even 65 miles an hour if you desire. The new Ford has unusual speed—no doubt of that!

A smart, low, speedy car that has been built to endure

The new Ford will climb hills that you never thought a low-price car would climb on high. It will pass cars that you never thought you could pass. The longest trips will seem easy, for here is a car that puts new joy in motoring.

There is still another reason why the new Ford car is the most outstanding value ever offered in a low-price car. An important three-word reason that means a great deal to you—endurance—durability—long life.

The new Ford car is made to stand up under thousands upon thousands of miles of steady running over all kinds of roads. It has even more stamina than the Model T Ford because we have learned to make every part stronger and sturdier without increased weight or greatly increased cost.

Many of the Model T Ford cars are still in active service after 75,000, 100,000 and 150,000 miles. This new Ford car will do even better. In the words of Henry Ford: "It is our ambition to have every piece of machinery or non-consumable product that we turn out so strong and so well-made that no one ought ever to have to buy a second one."

Four-wheel brakes and standard, selective gear shift

On the right we are printing, for the first time, the complete details of the new Ford car. Read them over carefully, especially the paragraphs dealing with the new engine, the new bodies, the new standard, selective gear shift transmission with roller bearings, the new four-wheel brakes, the new hydraulic shock absorbers, the new mechanical design ignition, the new oiling system, and the new dry-plate, multiple-disc clutch.

Then decide that whatever else you do Friday you are going to set aside at least fifteen minutes to get the full story of the new Ford car. It is more than a new automobile. It is the advanced expression of a wholly new idea in modern, economical transportation.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY
Detroit, Michigan

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD CAR

35 TO 65 MILES AN HOUR

The new Ford has unusual speed. It will do 55 to 60 miles an hour with ease. This is a conservative statement. In many road tests it has exceeded 65 miles an hour. So well does the new car hold the road that you can travel at high speed for long stretches with a new feeling of comfort and safety. Even bad roads may be taken at a fast pace. You will be delighted too with the way the new Ford climbs the hills. You will face the steepest grades with confidence, knowing you have power and power to spare to climb them all without greatly reduced speed, without strain, or unnecessary shifting of gears.

40-HORSE-POWER ENGINE

At 2200 revolutions per minute, the new Ford four-cylinder engine develops 40 horse-power. This r. p. m., or revolution speed, is low for such power and shows that the engine is unusually efficient. It also means long life, for the lower the speed of the engine, the less the wear on its parts. The bore is 3 1/8 inches and the stroke 4 1/4 inches. (S. A. E. and N. A. C. C. rating for license purposes, 24.03 horsepower.)

REMARKABLE ACCELERATION

The new Ford is remarkably quick on the get-away. In tests in high gear, with a Tudor sedan body and two passengers, it has accelerated from 5 to 25 miles per hour in 8 1/2 seconds. This acceleration is an outstanding feature of the new Ford car.

PREVENTING VIBRATION

The engine in the new Ford is practically vibrationless. This is due in part to its lower r. p. m., the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft, and the aluminum pistons. To insure quiet, the timing gears are made of baked fabric instead of metal, and the cams on the camshaft are so designed that the valve push rods follow them closely, preventing valve clicking.

GASOLINE ECONOMY

You will get from 20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline, depending on the speed at which you drive. Feed to the carburetor is by gravity from a unique welded one-piece steel tank integral with the cow.

UNIQUE NEW OILING SYSTEM

The oiling system is distinctly Ford in design, being a combination of pump, splash, and gravity feed. The pump delivers the oil to the valve chamber, from which it flows by gravity feed to the main bearings of the crankshaft. An oil dipper is provided on each connecting rod bearing cap, so that the force of rotation of the crankshaft drives oil into the connecting rod bearings, as well as splashing oil over all working parts within the engine. This is a simple but entirely dependable system, assuring proper lubrication of each bearing and each cylinder without pressure.

PERFECTED COOLING

The new Ford car has a centrifugal water pump, and large radiator. The fan runs on the pump shaft and is made according to airplane propeller design. It is exceedingly difficult to make the new Ford engine overheat; only abuse will do it, such as running without enough oil.

IGNITION SYSTEM OF NEW DESIGN

The ignition system of the new Ford is unique in mechanical design, extremely simple, and will give the car owner exceptional performance with a minimum of trouble. There is only one coil, in a water-proof case. The distributor is located on top of the engine where it is clean and easily accessible. Connections are made to the spark-plugs by short bronze springs. The coincidental lock on the new Ford is placed in the ignition circuit. It not only replaces the regular ignition switch, but in the "off" position grounds the entire circuit. From the switch to the distributor a steel cable protects the primary current wire, this wire being grounded to the distributor casing, thereby making it impossible to wire around the device. The new generator is of the power-house type.

STANDARD, SELECTIVE GEAR SHIFT

The new Ford transmission is of the selective sliding gear type, with standard shift. It has three speeds forward and one reverse. The main shaft runs on ball bearings, the countershaft on roller bearings, and the reverse idler on a bronze bearing. This is the highest type of bearing mounting and is unusual on light cars. All gears are made of heat-treated chrome alloy steel. You will be delighted with the easy, noiseless shifting of gears in this new transmission. You can go from one to another easily, silently, with the pressure of a finger.

EXCEPTIONALLY EASY TO STEER

The steering gear on the new Ford car is irreversible. Shocks are not transmitted back to the hands of the driver. You need not grip the wheel tightly. A light touch is enough to guide the car safely. Large steering wheel is made of steel, covered with hard rubber. Light switch and horn button are conveniently located on top of wheel.

NEW FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

The brakes on the new Ford car are an exclusive Ford development. They are of the mechanical, internal expanding-shoe type and are self-centering. This is the most reliable and the simplest type of four-wheel brake and the easiest to adjust. All adjustments are made from the outside without removing any parts. No special tools are needed. Uniform, correct adjustment on each wheel is quickly and easily obtained. The brake pedal and the hand lever each operate all four brakes. Total braking surface is 168 square inches. All brake working parts are cadmium plated to make them rust-proof.

MULTIPLE DRY-DISC CLUTCH

The clutch in the new Ford is of the multiple dry-disc type, which is the most reliable. It is also the easiest to operate, for it takes hold gently and smoothly. It has four driving discs and five driven discs.

COMFORTABLE TRANSVERSE SPRINGS

The springs are of the transverse, semi-elliptic type, designed and built for the new Ford. This type, which was used in the Model T, was adapted to the new car because no better spring type could be found. They are built of the finest spring steel, and the leaves are wide and thin. Each spring is built up of varying sizes and number of leaves to give proper flexibility and to meet riding requirements of the different body types. The size and number of leaves used in these springs is one of the reasons why the new Ford is such a comfortable car. The construction of the transverse springs also contributes to the safety and efficiency of the 4-wheel brakes.

HYDRAULIC SHOCK ABSORBERS

The finest type hydraulic shock absorbers are standard equipment on the new Ford. These combine with the low center of gravity, the minimum unsprung weight, and the easy riding qualities of the transverse springs to make the new Ford one of the most comfortable cars on the road today.

THREE-QUARTERS-FLOATING REAR AXLE

The rear axle of the new Ford is of the three-quarters-floating type. The axle housings are made entirely of steel, built up by welding steel forgings to steel tubing. The differential housing, to which these housings are bolted, is made of rolled channel steel. The axle shafts carry none of the weight of the car, the wheels running on roller bearings on the housing. All bearings in the rear axle are of the roller type. Drive is by spiral bevel gear.

FORD-DESIGNED STEEL-SPOKE WHEELS

Original design and great strength are two features that mark the unique, Ford-designed steel-spoke wheels. Each wheel is assembled by welding, and becomes one piece of metal. Spokes cannot work loose. Each spoke has a tensile strength of 4000 pounds. Outside spokes do not cross, so that the wheels are easy to clean. There are only 30 spokes in each wheel.

BEAUTIFUL NEW LOW BODY LINES

There is a bit of the European touch in the coachwork and contour of the new Ford. Bodies are steel. Fenders are of the full crown type. Appointments and hardware are of a luxurious type seldom found in a low-price car. Upholstery is of rich, durable material. Cushions are deep and easy. Door handles and window lifts are fully nickelated. Speedometer, gasoline gauge, ammeter and ignition lock are mounted on an instrument panel of satin-finish nickel, illuminated by a lamp in center. Headlamps and radiator shell are fully nickelated. Closed cars have the new military-type sun visor and crown roof. Great care has been taken in designing the new Ford to provide generous seat space and ample leg room. Clear, unobstructed vision is assured at front by unusually narrow pillars and at sides by specially designed doors with large windows.

CHOICE OF FOUR COLORS

The color combinations used on the new Ford are especially artistic and attractive. Four color choices are offered for each body type—a most unusual feature in a low-price car. Purchasers may choose any one of the following colors: Niagara Blue, Arabian Sand, Dawn Gray, and Gun Metal Blue. Belt and reveals are finished in contrasting colors, with attractive striping. The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, one of the finest and most enduring finishes for automobile bodies. It is not affected by heat or cold, withstands all kinds of weather conditions, and is not easily marred or scratched. The lustre actually improves with washing.

A QUIET CAR

In designing the new Ford, every precaution was taken to prevent squeaks, rattles and drumming sounds. Body panels and frame sections are welded and riveted together wherever there is possibility of body weaving. In all structural details the new Ford bodies are built to afford the utmost quietness and comfort.

GREASE GUN LUBRICATION

The chassis of the new Ford is lubricated by the pressure grease gun system, the simplest and most effective method of lubrication.

When to Suspect Acid Scalp

It can't age that dulls the hair. Nor frequent washing or curling. If your hair lacks all life and lustre, it may be due to a condition you can correct in twenty-four hours. Acid scalp.

Neutralize the acid secretions of the scalp, and your hair will have the lovely sheen that makes any hair so attractive. A few drops of Danderine will do this; and as its name implies, Danderine is a scientific dandruff dissolvent. Five minutes after Danderine is applied, every particle of dandruff has been dissolved! Acid scalp should be suspected if your hair is at all stiff or stringy, or won't hold a wave. Another sign—not so easily detected in one's self—is an acrid odor to the hair when it is warm, or after exercise. And for thirty-five cents at any drug store, you can get a bottle of Danderine that will keep your hair soft and sweet and "its good behavior" for weeks!

BISHOP JONES MADE DEFENDANT; COURT FAVORS PLAINTIFFS

Bishop J. H. Jones, Wilberforce, is made defendant in an injunction suit filed in Common Pleas Court by J. T. Turner.

Plaintiff owns a farm in Xenia Twp., according to the petition, which charges that a Mr. Riddle, the tenant, owes Turner $150 for rent and money advanced for seed for the crops.

Therefore plaintiff asserts he has a claim on the crops, including the corn crop, but that the defendant, claiming some interest in the corn crop, is seeking to remove and sell the crop.

The court allowed a temporary restraining order. Attorney F. L. Johnson represents Turner.

DECISION REVERSED

Exceptions filed by W. B. Leach and Alverda Leach to a former order of Probate Court in connection with the administration of the estate of L. D. Glass, assessing an inheritance tax on a devise in the will of the decedent, which they renounced, have been sustained in Common Pleas Court.

An appeal had been taken to the higher court from Probate Court from a former court order overruling the exceptions.

The higher court held that as the net value of the estate is $4,114.51 and the entire estate passes as intertestate property to the widow, Lucy M. Glass, she is therefore entitled to an exemption of $3,000.

The court ordered that no inheritance tax be assessed against the estate. The state tax commission filed exceptions to the decision and a motion for a new trial, which was overruled.

MOTIONS OVERRULED

Defendant's motion to make the petition more definite and certain has been overruled by the court in the case of F. L. Stevens against C. G. Wantz in Common Pleas Court. A demurrer was also overruled.

In the case of M. D. Flock against the Ohio Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., motion of the defendant to make the petition more definite was overruled. Defendant is given fourteen days in which to plead.

CASE DISMISSED

Case of Walter Stoops against E. E. Wheeler in Common Pleas Court has been dismissed since a compromise has been effected between the two parties.

SEAL SALE WORKERS REPORT PROGRESS; ORIGINATOR DIES

Incomplete returns from the first day of the sale of anti-tuberculosis seals show $297.94 was raised by personal solicitation.

Indications are that the city's fraction of the quota for the county will be reached before the solicitation is completed.

The opening of the twentieth annual Christmas Seal Sale finds the festivities of the holidays tempered among those actively engaged in the campaign by the knowledge that the originator of the Christmas Seal has died since the conclusion of last year's sale. The man who made financially possible the world-wide war on tuberculosis, Einar Holboell, postmaster at Charlottenlund, Denmark, succumbed to heart trouble in his sixty-second year, February 23, 1927.

Twenty-four years ago he was a young mail clerk in the post office at Charlottenlund, working far into the night on Christmas Eve distributing holiday greeting cards and letters. He saw that as a rule they would go to comfortable homes, housing happy, vigorous families. But he knew, too, that often to those homes where kind Christmas wishes and good Christmas deeds were most needed, there likely would not come even a brief word of greeting. An inspiration seized him. Perhaps by a tax on greeting cards this could be accomplished.

His fertile imagination soon pictured a device to encourage the practice of holiday cards and put a voluntary tax on it, and this in Denmark was born the idea of the Christmas Seal, in 1903.

The first sale in the United States was in 1907 when Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Delaware, adopted the idea to raise funds to maintain a tuberculosis shack of eight beds on the banks of the Brandywine, securing $2,000. She in turn had read a magazine article by the great philanthropist, Jacob A. Riis, describing the Danish tuberculosis stamp he had received on the back of a letter from the city of his birth—Copenhagen.

Miss Bissell next aspired to extend the work by a national campaign, and interested the American Red Cross. The first national Christmas Seal Sale occurred in 1908, and brought in $15,000. Each year since the sum has increased just as it has in Denmark.

VOICES.

During recent years some millions of young people have spoiled their speaking voices by yelling like maniacs at high school and college games. A strange madness came over the colleges, manifesting itself in the most insane screaming and yelling. High school pupils soon became infected, and proceeded to imitate the colleges with a vigor more rabid than commendable.

Often one may hear thousands of healthy young persons doing violence to their vocal cords in unison, without any greater provocation than a third-rate football contest and the gyrations of a yell leader.

A professor tells of several attractive and intelligent college girls who have emerged from their halls of study with permanently hoarse or coarse voices. Excessive screaming has given them the voices of fish-mongers. They are credited in later life with "whiskey voice," when in reality they have sacrificed very attractive voices to the silly custom of howling like lunatics over unimportant athletic contests that they will forget all about as soon as they have left the campus.

The plainest girl and the homeliest man may make themselves as agreeable and as popular as the bathing beauty queen at a picnic, if they have pleasant and well-modulated voices. It is not always needful to have something profound or important to say. Say it in a soothing voice, and it wins the golden apple, even though it's only a Mother Goose rhyme.

The feature of the American stage that bores one most is the artificial voice and vocal mannerisms of the average actor and actress. The women of the stage are worse in this respect than the men, but only a little worse.

A girl should guard her voice and enunciation more than her complexion. You can always buy a new complexion at the store, but only God can give you a voice, and when you spoil the one given you, you are notoriously out of luck.

UNEMPLOYMENT AN

"UNPARDONABLE DISEASE"

The conviction that the day will come when unemployment will be just as unpardonable as the yellow fever or smallpox is expressed by Charles Stetzel writing in "Forbes."

Mr. Stetzel charges that we have never really tried wholeheartedly to cope with what he believes to be one of the greatest evils of our time. "We seem," he writes, "to be able to prepare for almost every other kind of an industrial mishap, but the cycles of unemployment find us just as unprepared as though we had never experienced such a thing. The man who meets with an accident may have compensation, but the unemployed workman is doomed to deterioration and destitution. We prepare men and women for war—fitting them to highly specialized tasks. If we gave a tithe of our thought to meeting the problem of unemployment, it would be solved. And if it can be done in the spirit of religion, it will help tremendously in humanizing and spiritualizing industry."

The writer believes that business has an unparalleled opportunity to make religion a real thing. "The great need today," he says, "is life—a more abundant life. To give life is the essence of religion. Naturally, one of the first considerations in the enrichment of life is the actual saving of life itself and the making of that life more comfortable." That both of these phases of religious activity have more opportunity for practice in business than anywhere else is indicated by some figures quoted by Mr. Stetzel.

According to the writer, business is the most powerful force in the world today— even more powerful than politics. "This," he concludes, "gives it unprecedented opportunity."

The Way of the World

THE WORLD MOVES

Unfortunately all movement is not ahead. All change is not progress.

Here are samples of one day's news. Judge for yourself how important it is:

Jack Price of Cleveland, exhibitor at the National Beauty and Barbers' Supply Dealers' convention announced that the time needed for the permanent wave has been cut from a day and a half to an hour and a half.

ANOTHER:

Hugo Heyn, Omaha business man, has purchased an airplane to carry him to Shenandoah, Ia., where he regularly appears on radio programs from KMA. Mr. Heyn feared that winter might make the automobile roads impassable.

ONE MORE FROM THE MIDDLE WEST

Ten Dakota City, Neb., high school students received severe acid burns on their faces and necks and some of them were probably permanently scarred as the result of hazing between classes. Now that they have been scarred they are recognized as "properly" initiated.

AND IN PHILADELPHIA

A United States senator giving all his heart and strength to the problem of reducing the tax-load on the American public, is interrupted disconcertingly until he discontinues his address. Just a case of misunderstanding. The senator thought he was addressing a group of business men interested in hearing the basic facts of the tax situation. The crowd in the hall expected to hear much praise for local candidates in a municipal election.

THE WORLD MOVES

Down in Texas the other day a Mother reminded her nine-year-old son, who is very much a cool boy, that there are some things in the world besides major league baseball and professionalized fighting. "Our Mother," the boy retorted, "Gene Tunney made a million dollars in a fight. Have any of your friends ever done that?"

KELLYGRAM

by Fred C. Kelly

So many things are not as represented in the advance notice that I was curious to see if Ireland is really an Emerald Isle!

Sure enough, it is—the most vivid green one can imagine. This is due to the excessive moisture. Nearly every month in the year behaves as if it were the height of the rainy season. July, August and September are probably the best months for touring purposes, but even they have more rain than we're used to at home. Because of rain and fogs, the trunks of trees are covered with moss and fuzzy little growth that seems almost as out of place as a mustache on a woman.

Even though Ireland has a northern latitude comparable to Maine, the winters are mild. Mike, our chauvinist, tells us, and snow melts almost as soon as it falls. The influence of the gulf stream is responsible for this. When I studied geography the teacher was always telling what sounded like fantastic stories about the gulf stream causing this or that, but it begins to look as if maybe she were right after all. On the way over, I noticed sea weed right out in the middle of the ocean, and the captain said that it, too, was on account of the gulf stream.

No wonder the Irish love Ireland. Here is startling beauty, with rare quaintness. Thousands of tourists come to the British Isles every year, but land at Liverpool and never glimpse Ireland. What a mistake! I doubt if Europe can offer greater beauty than this.

Ireland somehow seems like a country designed mainly for a musical comedy setting.

EQUATION OF LIFE
SUBJECT OF FAVOR
BEFORE KIWANIS

Reading from Moffat's translation of the New Testament, the familiar parable of the talents, Dr. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M. E. Church, addressed the Kiwanis Club, on "The Mathematical Equation of Life" at the Elks Club, Tuesday night.

The application of the material was entirely original with the speaker and the men enjoyed the discussion of the equation of life as applied to daily living. The equation is: natural ability, multiplied by effort, multiplied by time, equals infinity. The speaker took up each point of the equation and applied it to everyday life.

That we have nothing to do with our "natural ability" but are responsible for its use, which is the "effort" that we put forth, was explained by the speaker. "No man can measure the accomplishments of an individual if he puts forth the right amount of effort in the time" that he has at his disposal. If you put "zero" in the equation anywhere you have flat failure, Dr. Shank declared. He closed with an appeal to the men to put the maximum of their lives into the equation of life and said that "God only could measure the results."

The First M. E. Church quartet offered several selections with its accompanist, Miss Theda Downing. The quartet is composed of Ray Spahr, Bayless Thompson, W. E. Currie, and Karl R. Babb. J. H. Whitmer, S. W. Guyton and Martin Schmidt were members of the committee in charge of the meeting.

HOLIDAY VACATION
WILL BE ELEVEN DAYS

Eleven calendar days of Christmas vacation will be granted Xenia city school children, including seven actual school days.

Classes will be dismissed the afternoon of December 22 and school will re-open the morning of January 3. School will take up on Tuesday after the holiday period this year since New Years falls on Sunday and will be celebrated the following Monday.

SCHOOL CHILDREN
GET "PAY CHECKS"

"Pay checks," representing six weeks of scholastic effort, were distributed among Xenia city school children Wednesday.

Contained in the customary white envelopes, school children received their grade cards, based on school work in the last six weeks, or the second grading period.

MRS. O'LEARY'S COW STARTS SOMETHING AGAIN

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—In his mind's eye—and about five years—Congressman Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, can see international mails traveling by airplane, just as domestic mails do now, only more so, a great deal.

Congressman Kelly, a mighty busy postoffice committee member, prophesies with authority on the subject of air mails.

He's father of the contract air mail system, as we have it here at one.

Next thing, he's ambitious to be the parent of a sister system to carry the family name.

Such infants cost a little money to launch in life. The Pennsylvania congressman's mission is to see that the postmaster general's enabled to charge enough for stamps to provide 'em with the incubulum they need.

The domestic air mail has bothed Papa Kelly a trifle of late, by acting up.

Originally it was a government-operated air mail.

"This is wrong," reasoned the Keystone State representative. "Private aviators ought to get this business, on contract, for enough to keep 'em alive. Assured of that, and maybe a wee bit over, they can manage to do pretty well, with what they can earn on the side."

"Then American flying will develop, sure enough."

The Pennsylvania put this scheme through. The postoffice quit operating planes, and, a few weeks ago, turned the last of the air mails over to private contractors to transport.

And now come complaints of cases where these mails don't travel as fast, under contract, as the government carried them.

"Naughty!" exclaimed Papa Kelly, hotly, when he heard this news.

she thinks she must content herself with one. Which one shall she choose?

"Dear Mr. Lee: I am a discouraged girl of sixteen and am a junior in high school. Last summer I went with Ted. When he went away to college his best friend started asking me for dates, which I accepted. Recently Ted came to see me when I was with Bill. Which one should I go with? When I'm with Bill I prefer Ted, and when I'm with Ted I prefer Bill. Answer me, please, just as soon as possible. NANCY."

The best thing you can do, Nancy, is to keep both of them. Why give up Ted on account of Bill or Bill on account of Ted, when the three of you could have a perfectly fine time?"

Surprise Salad—Two table spoons gelatin, one-half cup cold water, two cups boiling water and pineapple juice, one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup sugar, one cup shredded cabbage, one-eighth cup seedless raisins, one-half cup sweet cider, one-quarter cup thick mayonnaise. Scoop out center from medium-sized red apples. (Save the center for applesauce.) Let the mixture stand on ice for several hours so that the flavors are well blended. Then press it gently into the apple shells, cover tops with mayonnaise and sprinkle with nuts. Serve on crisp lettuce.

The Theater

People have not yet ceased wondering at the motion picture industry and the things it has accomplished. There are old time showmen who would shout with glee if they ever had an attraction that would pay a total of $10,000 a week. Today this sum would not pay the weekly salary of any one of the several picture stars.

Early in the present season one New York cinema palace announced that its receipts on a four week's run had gone over $250,000. A few weeks later another huge house announced gross receipts of $140,000 a week of seven days. Recently a movie house made an offer to Al Jolson guaranteeing the actor $22,000 for one week's personal appearance. Mr. Jolson rejected the offer on the grounds that it would be unethical for him to appear personally on the stage in such proximity to his Vitaphone film.

The average fair-sized musical comedy on Broadway would ask no more than $22,000 as a gross weekly revenue at the box office. When the filming of "The Jazz Singer" with Jolson was completed he filled an engagement of a week in one of the Los Angeles picture houses. His salary was $17,500. The gross receipts for the week turned $52,000.

MAY TRANSFER GAME WARDENS AT WILL

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 30.—Director of Agriculture C. V. Truax today was in receipt of a ruling from Attorney General Edward C. Turner to the effect that the director of agriculture has authority to transfer game protectors to such counties, or places, within this state, as he may deem advisable.

In asking for the ruling, Truax wrote Turner that he found there are "some cases where a protector has become quite well known and the violators (of game laws) take advantage of this. We find that if the protectors are transferred into a new territory, it would benefit the department in many ways."

READ THIS FIRST:

LILY LEXINGTON, the spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is very fond of him, but realizes she is not in love with him the day after she accepts him. For she falls in love "at first sight" with a taxi driver that she sees downtown when she is on her way to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home that day, and for days afterward she manages to see him. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend ROY JETTERSON. He sells it to finance a piston ring that he has invented, and he and his cab disappear from the streets.

Lily misses him terribly, and makes up her mind that she cannot marry Staley. But Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement, and the wedding day is set for June tenth, a few weeks off. Then, on the tenth of May, Lily goes out into the back yard to see the new chauffeur her mother has hired and finds—Pat France! He admits he has taken the job just to be near her, and he and Lily spend hours together every day. Finally CARRIE, a housemaid, who likes Pat pretty well herself, tells Staley Drummond that Lily has Pat's picture in her room, and goes with the same story to Mrs. Lexington. Then she leaves the house.

Lily offers to break the engagement when Staley comes to ask her about the story, but he refuses to let her, insisting that he cares too much for her to really believe the story. Then Mrs. Lexington takes matters into her own hands by telling Pat he'll have to take Carrie's place, and serve dinner that night when Staley comes. Pat refuses and Lily leaves the house with him. They go to his father's house, next door to his grocery, and are married the next day despite the protests of Lily's parents and Staley. On Sunday morning Lily lies in bed 'till noon, and FLORENCE, Pat's sister, says Pat is at the Jettersons' home. Lily, who doesn't like SADYE JETTERSON because she is a friend of Pat's old girl, ELIZABETH ERTZ, is angry because he has gone there. She falls asleep again, although it's noon, waiting for him to come home.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXV

It was half past twelve when Lily opened her eyes again. Some one was knocking on her door, and from the hall came Florence's light, pretty voice:

"Wake up, Lily! Dinner will be ready in half an hour."

Lily sat up in bed, blinking her eyes to get the sleep out of them.

"Turn on the water in the tub, then, will you?" she called, drowsily.

"And then come here a second." She reached for a cigaret and was lying flat on her back, sending a plume of smoke to the ceiling when Florence came into the room.

"Honey, which dress would you put on?" she asked, her eyes running over the clothes that she had hung in Pat's closet.

"This one," Florence answered, taking down the pink-and-orchid one that Lily had worn the day before. "I'm crazy about it."

"All right," its owner answered, with a wide yawn. "And if you look in my suitcase you'll see some orchid silk underthings and a pair of sandcolored stockings with orchid clocks. Just hang them in the bathroom for me, will won't?"

Florence rummaged through the suitcase, exclaiming over the embroidered stockings, the hand-sewn silk lingerie, the sachet bags of violet-scented silk that were tucked into the corners.

"Everything you have is so beautiful!" she said. "It would have just poisoned me to leave all the things that you must have left behind you when you married Pat. But you know what they say—'Ain't love wonderful'?"

Lily frowned, sitting on the edge of the bed and slipping her slender naked feet into her mules. She wondered why Pat had not come home from the Jettersons'.....

Wouldn't it be dreadful if he found out now that he really liked that Ertz girl better than he thought he did? Sometimes men never discovered who the right woman was until they had married the "wrong" one.

"What do you suppose is keeping Pat so long?" she asked Florence, anxiously.

Florence shrugged her shoulders and held up a yellow silk princess slip to admire. "Oh, he always hangs around their house a lot," she said, absently. "Just look at the lace on this slip! I never saw anything so fine!" She sighed, folding it up and laying it back in the suitcase.

Lily sighed, too—but not because of the slip. "Why don't you run over to the Jettersons'?"

Florence shook her head. "I've got to help mother with the dinner," she said. "Always make the salad and the coffee."

It was while she was combing her hair that Lily decided to run over to the Jettersons' house, herself, to bring Pat home. "I may as well be friends with them first as last," she said to her bright image in the glass. "If I'm not, it's going to make between me and Pat. He likes them—so I'll have to pretend that I do, too, I suppose."

She went to the top of the stairs and called to Florence, to ask her to telephone for a taxicab for her.

"I'm going to drive over to the Jettersons' for Pat," she told her.

"It won't take you ten minutes to walk there," Florence called up the stairway, and Lily frowned and did not answer. She wished that Florence wouldn't mix in—that she would do as she was told and not argue about it.

"Are you sure you want a cab?"

"Of course, I want a cab! Call it right away!" Lily spoke to her as she might have spoken to the long suffering Carrie in the old days at home.

And after another long pause, Florence obeyed.

The Roy Jettersons' house was built close to the sidewalk on Cher-

You take my place and wait on anybody who comes in," she said. "France is out delivering—"

"I" Lily broke in, her eyebrows lifted, her chin up in the air. "It Stand behind a counter and wait on these people down here? Oh, no, you don't know me! I'm not used to waiting on ANYBODY and I'll never be a grocery clerk! Not even for a minute!"

The wise mother gives little heed to "diets" for her growing girl or boy, and worries not at all about their bowels. A little fig syrup gives all the help, and has none of the harm that's found in habit-forming laxatives.

Have you a girl or boy whose food doesn't seem to nourish as it should? Let them eat the same things, and just treat them to a daily spoonful of this rich, fruity syrup; watch them gain weight, see how their cheeks fill out and how appetite and assimilation improve! And a few drops will do remarkable things for an ailing infant. California Fig Syrup is a purely vegetable product, so parents need have no hesitancy in giving it to infants.

California Fig Syrup is not expensive; all dealers charge but six cents for a generous bottle. Just make certain that it is the California product; say "California" in asking for it.

Try California Fig Syrup two weeks on any child, and let his altered appearance and actions tell the full story! — Adv.

To Xenia Milk Users

Due to the fact that dealers from Dayton, Cincinnati, Columbus and other large cities, have invaded the local milk producing territory, and by paying city prices for milk locally produced, have forced the prices of raw milk up to the city level, The Dairy Products Company is compelled to raise the price of milk accordingly.

Increased cost of production brought about by regulations in regard to the housing and care of dairy herds, and the high cost of feed, have also made it necessary for the dairy farmer to be paid higher prices for milk used for public distribution. The increased cost of milk to the consumer does NOT mean increased profits to the Dairy Products Company, but means that the dairy farmer is receiving a larger return on his raw product.

The Dairy Products Company has deferred action in regard to the increased cost of production until forced by circumstances to either increase the price of the milk or accept lower quality milk. Believing that our customers will unitedly sanction a small increase in cost rather than risk the dangers of any but the highest standard milk we will inaugurate a new scale of prices as follow:

The New Ford Car will sell at a SURPRISINGLY LOW PRICE

Complete details of the new car which will be officially announced this FRIDAY

THE MINUTE you see the pictures of the new Ford car you will be delighted with its low, smart lines and the artistic color combinations. There, you will say, is a truly modern car.

But a still greater thrill awaits you when you slip into the roomy seat behind the wheel and start away for your first ride. Then you will know that you have found the most unusual value ever offered in a low-price car.

You will like the feeling of speed and power that the new Ford gives you—the comfortable, prideful feeling that comes from having a car worthy of any occasion and equal to every emergency.

You will like the flexibility and safety of the new Ford car as you weave in and out of city traffic—its flashing pick-up as the light turns green and the sign says "Go." You will like its smooth, quiet steadiness on the open road where you can lazy along according to your mood, or do 55 and even 65 miles an hour if you desire. The new Ford has unusual speed—no doubt of that!

A smart, low, speedy car that has been built to endure

The new Ford will climb hills that you never thought a low-price car would climb on high. It will pass cars that you never thought you could pass. The longest trips will seem easy, for here is a car that puts new joy in motoring.

There is still another reason why the new Ford car is the most outstanding value ever offered in a low-price car. An important three-word reason that means a great deal to you—endurance—durability—long life.

The new Ford car is made to stand up under thousands upon thousands of miles of steady running over all kinds of roads. It has even more stamina than the Model T Ford because we have learned to make every part stronger and sturdier without increased weight or greatly increased cost.

Many of the Model T Ford cars are still in active service after 75,000, 100,000 and 150,000 miles. This new Ford car will do even better. In the words of Henry Ford: "It is our ambition to have every piece of machinery or non-consumable product that we turn out so strong and so well-made that no one ought ever to have to buy a second one."

Four-wheel brakes and standard, selective gear shift

On the right we are printing, for the first time, the complete details of the new Ford car. Read them over carefully, especially the paragraphs dealing with the new engine, the new bodies, the new standard, selective gear shift transmission with roller bearings, the new four-wheel brakes, the new hydraulic shock absorbers, the new mechanical design ignition, the new oiling system, and the new dry-plate, multiple-disc clutch.

Then decide that whatever else you do Friday you are going to set aside at least fifteen minutes to get the full story of the new Ford car. It is more than a new automobile. It is the advanced expression of a wholly new idea in modern, economical transportation.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY
Detroit, Michigan

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD CAR

55 TO 65 MILES AN HOUR

The new Ford has unusual speed. It will do 55 to 60 miles an hour with ease. This is a conservative statement. In many road tests it has exceeded 65 miles an hour. So well does the new car hold the road that you can travel at high speed for long stretches with a new feeling of comfort and safety. Even bad roads may be taken at a fast pace. You will be delighted too with the way the new Ford climbs the hills. You will face the steepest grades with confidence, knowing you have power and power to spare to climb them all without greatly reduced speed, without strain, or unnecessary shifting of gears.

40-HORSE-POWER ENGINE

At 2200 revolutions per minute, the new Ford four-cylinder engine develops 40 horse-power. This r. p. m., or revolution speed, is low for such power and shows that the engine is unusually efficient. It also means long life, for the lower the speed of the engine, the less the wear on its parts. The bore is 3 1/8 inches and the stroke 4 1/4 inches. (S. A. E. and N. A. C. C. rating for license purposes, 24.05 horse-power.)

REMARKABLE ACCELERATION

The new Ford is remarkably quick on the get-away. In tests in high gear, with a Tudor sedan body and two passengers, it has accelerated from 5 to 25 miles per hour in 8 1/2 seconds. This acceleration is an outstanding feature of the new Ford car.

PREVENTING VIBRATION

The engine in the new Ford is practically vibrationless. This is due in part to its lower r. p. m., the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft, and the aluminum pistons. To insure quiet, the timing gears are made of baked fabric instead of metal, and the cams on the camshaft are so designed that the valve push rods follow them closely, preventing valve clicking.

GASOLINE ECONOMY

You will get from 20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline, depending on the speed at which you drive. Feed to the carburetor is by gravity from a unique welded one-piece steel tank integral with the cow.

UNIQUE NEW OILING SYSTEM

The oiling system is distinctly Ford in design, being a combination of pump, splash, and gravity feed. The pump delivers the oil to the valve chamber, from which it flows by gravity feed to the main bearings of the crankshaft. An oil dipper is provided on each connecting rod bearing cap, so that the force of rotation of the crankshaft drives oil into the connecting rod bearings, as well as splashing oil over all working parts within the engine. This is a simple but entirely dependable system, assuring proper lubrication of each bearing and each cylinder without pressure.

PERFECTED COOLING

The new Ford car has a centrifugal water pump, and large radiator. The fan runs on the pump shaft and is made according to airplane propeller design. It is exceedingly difficult to make the new Ford engine overheat; only abuse will do it, such as running without enough oil.

IGNITION SYSTEM OF NEW DESIGN

The ignition system of the new Ford is unique in mechanical design, extremely simple, and will give the car owner exceptional performance with a minimum of trouble. There is only one coil, in a water-proof case. The distributor is located on top of the engine where it is clean and easily accessible. Connections are made to the spark-plugs by short bronze springs. The coincidental lock on the new Ford is placed in the ignition circuit. It not only replaces the regular ignition switch, but in the "off" position grounds the entire circuit. From the switch to the distributor a steel cable protects the primary current wire, this wire being grounded to the distributor casing, thereby making it impossible to wire around the device. The new generator is of the power-house type.

STANDARD, SELECTIVE GEAR SHIFT

The new Ford transmission is of the selective sliding gear type, with standard shift. It has three speeds forward and one reverse. The main shaft runs on ball bearings, the countershaft on roller bearings, and the reverse idler on a bronze bearing. This is the highest type of bearing mounting and is unusual on light cars. All gears are made of heat-treated chrome alloy steel. You will be delighted with the easy, noiseless shifting of gears in this new transmission. You can go from one to another easily, silently, with the pressure of a finger.

EXCEPTIONALLY EASY TO STEER

The steering gear on the new Ford car is irreversible. Shocks are not transmitted back to the hands of the driver. You need not grip the wheel tightly. A light touch is enough to guide the car safely. Large steering wheel is made of steel, covered with hard rubber. Light switch and horn button are conveniently located on top of wheel.

NEW FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

The brakes on the new Ford car are an exclusive Ford development. They are of the mechanical, internal expanding-shoe type and are self-centering. This is the most reliable and the simplest type of four-wheel brake and the easiest to adjust. All adjustments are made from the outside without removing any parts. No special tools are needed. Uniform, correct adjustment on each wheel is quickly and easily obtained. The brake pedal and the hand lever each operate all four brakes. Total braking surface is 168 square inches. All brake working parts are cadmium plated to make them rust-proof.

MULTIPLE DRY-DISC CLUTCH

The clutch in the new Ford is of the multiple dry-disc type, which is the most reliable. It is also the easiest to operate, for it takes hold gently and smoothly. It has four driving discs and five driven discs.

COMFORTABLE TRANSVERSE SPRINGS

The springs are of the transverse, semi-elliptic type, designed and built for the new Ford. This type, which was used in the Model T, was adapted to the new car because no better spring type could be found. They are built of the finest spring steel, and the leaves are wide and thin. Each spring is built up of varying sizes and number of leaves to give proper flexibility and to meet riding requirements of the different body types. The size and number of leaves used in these springs is one of the reasons why the new Ford is such a comfortable car. The construction of the transverse springs also contributes to the safety and efficiency of the 4-wheel brakes.

HYDRAULIC SHOCK ABSORBERS

The finest type hydraulic shock absorbers are standard equipment on the new Ford. These combine with the low center of gravity, the minimum unsprung weight, and the easy riding qualities of the transverse springs to make the new Ford one of the most comfortable cars on the road today.

THREE-QUARTERS-FLOATING REAR AXLE

The rear axle of the new Ford is of the three-quarters-floating type. The axle housings are made entirely of steel, built up by welding steel forgings to steel tubing. The differential housing, to which these housings are bolted, is made of rolled channel steel. The axle shafts carry none of the weight of the car, the wheels running on roller bearings on the housing. All bearings in the rear axle are of the roller type. Drive is by spiral bevel gear.

FORD-DESIGNED STEEL-SPOKE WHEELS

Original design and great strength are two features that mark the unique, Ford-designed steel-spoke wheels. Each wheel is assembled by welding, and becomes one piece of metal. Spokes cannot work loose. Each spoke has a tensile strength of 4000 pounds. Outside spokes do not cross, so that the wheels are easy to clean. There are only 30 spokes in each wheel.

BEAUTIFUL NEW LOW BODY LINES

There is a bit of the European touch in the coachwork and contour of the new Ford. Bodies are sleek. Fenders are of the full crown type. Appointments and hardware are of a luxurious type seldom found in a low-price car. Upholstery is of rich, durable material. Cushions are deep and easy. Door handles and window lifts are fully nickelated. Speedometer, gasoline gauge, ammeter and ignition lock are mounted on an instrument panel of satin-finish nickel, illuminated by a lamp in center. Headlamps and radiator shell are fully nickelated. Closed cars have the new military-type sun visor and crown roof. Great care has been taken in designing the new Ford to provide generous seat space and ample leg room. Clear, unobstructed vision is assured at front by unusually narrow pillars and at sides by specially designed doors with large windows.

CHOICE OF FOUR COLORS

The color combinations used on the new Ford are especially artistic and attractive. Four color choices are offered for each body type—most unusual feature in a low-price car. Purchasers may choose any one of the following colors—Niagara Blue, Arabian Sand, Dawn Gray, and Gua Meni Blue. Belt and reveals are finished in contrasting colors, with attractive striping. The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, one of the finest and most enduring finishes for automobile bodies. It is not affected by heat or cold, withstands all kinds of weather conditions, and is not easily marred or scratched. The lacquer actually improves with washing.

A QUIET CAR

In designing the new Ford, every precaution was taken to prevent squeaks, rattles and drumming sounds. Body panels and frame sections are welded and riveted together wherever there is possibility of the body warping. In all structural details the new Ford bodies are built to afford the utmost quietness and comfort.

GREASE GUN LUBRICATION

The chassis of the new Ford is lubricated by the pressure grease gun system, the simplest and most effective method of lubrication.

VOICES

During recent years some millions of young people have spoiled their speaking voices by yelling like maniacs at high school and college games. A strange madness came over the colleges, manifesting itself in the most insane screeching and yelling. High school pupils soon became infected, and proceeded to imitate the colleges with a vigor more rabid than commendable.

Often one may hear thousands of healthy young persons doing violence to their vocal cords in unison, without any greater provocation than a third-rate football contest and the gyrations of a yell leader.

A professor tells of several attractive and intelligent college girls who have emerged from their halls of study with permanently hoarse or coarse voices. Excessive screaming has given them the voices of fish-mongers. They are credited in later life with "whiskey voice," when in reality they have sacrificed very attractive voices to the silly custom of howling like lunatics over unimportant athletic contests that they will forget all about as soon as they have left the campus.

The plainest girl and the homeliest man may make themselves as agreeable and as popular as the bathing beauty queen at a picnic, if they have pleasant and well-modulated voices. It is not always needless to have something profound or important to say. Say it in a soothing voice, and it wins the golden apple, even though it's only a Mother Goose rhyme.

The feature of the American stage that bores one most is the artificial voice and vocal mannerisms of the average actor and actress. The women of the stage are worse in this respect than the men, but only a little worse.

A girl should guard her voice and enunciation more than her complexion. You can always buy a new complexion at the store, but only God can give you a voice, and when you spoil the one given you, you are notoriously out of luck.

UNEMPLOYMENT AN "UNPARDONABLE DISEASE"

The conviction that the day will come when unemployment will be just as unpardonable as the yellow fever or smallpox is expressed by Charles Stelzle writing in "Forbes."

Mr. Stelzle charges that we have never really tried wholeheartedly to cope with what he believes to be one of the greatest evils of our time. "We seem," he writes, "to be able to prepare for almost every kind of an industrial mishap, but the cycles of unemployment find us just as unprepared as though we had never experienced such a thing. The man who meets with an accident may have compensation, but the unemployed workman is doomed to deterioration and destitution. We prepare men and women for war—fitting them to highly specialized tasks. If we gave a tithe of our thought to meeting the problem of unemployment, it would be solved. And if it can be done in the spirit of religion, it will help tremendously in humanizing and spiritualizing industry."

The writer believes that business has an unparalleled opportunity to make religion a real thing. "The great need today," he says, "is life—a more abundant life. To give life is the essence of religion. Naturally, one of the first considerations in the enrichment of life is the actual saving of life itself and the making of that life more comfortable." That both of these phases of religious activity have more opportunity for practice in business than anywhere else is indicated by some figures quoted by Mr. Stelzle.

According to the writer, business is the most powerful force in the world today— even more powerful than politics. "This," he concludes, "gives it unprecedented opportunity."

The Way of the World

THE WORLD MOVES

Unfortunately all movement is not ahead. All change is not progress.

Here are samples of one day's news. Judge for yourself how important it is:

Jack Price of Cleveland, exhibitor at the National Beauty and Barber's Supply Dealers' convention announced that the time needed for the permanent wave has been cut from a day and a half to an hour and a half.

ANOTHER:

Hugo Heyn, Omaha business man, has purchased an airplane to carry him to Shenandoah, Ia., where he regularly appears on radio programs from KMA. Mr. Heyn feared that winter might make the automobile roads impassable.

ONE MORE FROM THE MIDDLE WEST

Ten Dakota City, Neb., high school students received severe acid burns on their faces and necks and some of them were probably permanently scarred as the result of hazing between classes. Now that they have been scarred they are recognized as "properly" initiated.

AND IN PHILADELPHIA

A United States senator, giving all his heart and strength to the problem of reducing the tax-load on the American public, is interrupted courteously until he discontinues his address. Just a case of misunderstanding. The senator thought he was addressing a group of business men interested in hearing the basic facts of the tax situation. The crowd in the hall expected to hear much praise for local candidates in a municipal election.

THE WORLD MOVES

Down in Texas the other day a mother reminded her nine-year-old son, who is very much a real boy, that there are only things in the world besides major league baseball and professionalized fighting. "But Mother," the boy retorted, "Gene Tunney made a million dollars in a fight. Have any of your friends ever done that?"

KELLYGRAM

By Fred C. Kelly

So many things are not as represented in the advanced notice that I was curious to see if Ireland is really an Emerald Isle. Sure enough, it is—the most vivid green one can imagine. This is due to the excessive moisture. Nearly every month in the year behaves as if it were the height of the rainy season. July, August and September are probably the best months for touring purposes, but even they have more rain than we're used to at home. Because of rain and fog, the trunks of trees are covered with moss and fuzzy little growth that seems almost as out of place as a mustache on a woman.

Even though Ireland has a northern latitude comparable to Maine, the winters are mild. Mike, our chauffeur, tells us, and snow melts almost as soon as it falls. The influence of the gulf stream is responsible for this. When I studied geography the teacher was always telling what sounded like fantastic stories about the gulf stream causing this or that, but it begins to look as if maybe she were right after all. On the way over, I noticed sea weed right out in the middle of the ocean, and the captain said that it, too, was on account of the gulf stream.

No wonder the Irish love Ireland. Here is startling beauty, with rare quaintness. Thousands of tourists come to the British Isles every year, but land at Liverpool and never glimpse Ireland. What a mistake! I doubt if Europe can offer greater beauty than this.

Ireland somehow seems like a country designed mainly for a musical comedy setting.

EQUATION OF LIFE
SUBJECT OF PASTOR
BEFORE KIWANIS

Reading from Moffat's translation of the New Testament, the familiar parable of the talents, Dr. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M. E. Church, addressed the Kiwanis Club, at "The Mathematical Equation of Life," at the Elks Club, Tuesday night.

The application of the material was entirely original with the speaker and the men enjoyed the discussion of the equation of life as applied to daily living. The equation is: natural ability, multiplied by effort, multiplied by time equals infinity. The speaker took up each point of the equation and applied it to everyday life.

That we have nothing to do with our "natural ability" but are responsible for its use, which is the "effort" that we put forth, was explained by the speaker. "No man can measure the accomplishments of an individual if he puts forth the right amount of effort in the 'time' that he has at his disposal. If you put 'zero' in the equation anywhere you have flat failure," Dr. Shank declared. He closed with an appeal to the men to put the maximum of their lives into the equation of life and said that "God only could measure the result."

The First M. E. Church quartet offered several selections with its accompanist, Miss Theda Downing. The quartet is composed of Roy Spahr, Bayless Thompson, W. E. Currie, and Karl R. Babb. J. H. Whitmer, S. W. Guyton and Martin Schmidt were members of the committee in charge of the meeting.

MRS. O'LEARY'S COW STARTS SOMETHING AGAIN

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDA MCGLOM GIBSON DUTY

The word "duty" is almost lost out of the lexicon of youth today. Of course, the younger writers speak loudly of "one's duty to oneself."

It seems to me that everyone who is born into this world owes "duty" before anything else to one's self.

Amiel has defined the word more beautifully than I could ever do.

"Never to tire; never to grow old; to be patient, sympathetic, tender; to look for the budding flower and the opening heart; to hope always like God; to love always—this is duty."

One should be very thankful that one is allowed to live in this beautiful world, and the way to give thanks for this privilege is to make it a little better for one's having lived.

The world owes no one a living. The air would be as fragrant, the birds would sing as sweetly, the sky would be as blue, the flowers would cover the waste places as quickly if there was not a man on this earth to enjoy all her treasures.

On the other hand, man has no excuse for being unless he makes life a little easier for someone else unless he makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before.

A friend of mine is always doing "the duty that lies nearest," but she does it with such good grace that her friends always say, "—wants to do that. She enjoys it."

TELLING the WORLD'S NEWS with PICTURES

INVASION OF HOLLYWOOD
can this foreign beauty capture U.S. movie fans?

Even the gents in Paris have their preference for blondes, judging from the success of Mlle. Fanny Heidy, prima donna of the Paris Opera company.

All the members of the company are popular. But when Mlle. Heidy makes her appearance—well, that's when the applause really gets under way. She started to keep an account of curtain calls once, but gave it up when she realized she was a songbird rather than a mathematician.

Incidentally, when Fanny isn't answering ovations she maintains her own racing stable. Fanny's horses usually speed into the premier position—just like their owner.

DARK LOCKS WIN FILM ROLE

Little more than a year ago, Marjorie Moore, of San Francisco, was doing a toe dancing act in vaudeville on the Pacific coast. Now she's a leading lady in the films and comedy's her specialty. She got her first movie job because she was a beauty and a blonde.

FLYING BABIES TAKE AIR SPIN

Because nursery tales of flying witches riding straw brooms; of gallant Arabian Knights soaring on magic carpets; and of Pegasus, the winged horse, always enthralled them, Betty Byrne, 8, and her sister Ann, 3, begged their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Byrne, of Memphis, Tenn., to let them go for a ride in a "flying auto." She consented and now the children, after a 20-minute spin with Aviator Jess Windham, are Memphis' first flying babies.

Studies "Big Bill"

Henry Wyckham Steed, British journalist, now visiting in the United States, plans to study Mayor Thompson's anti-British campaign in Chicago.

Ends Monoxide Dread

Rev. Father Thomas J. Glynn of McKeesport, Pa., claims to have invented an appliance that will prevent hundreds of lives being lost every year by deadly carbon monoxide gases from autos. His invention is attachment to car which acts as a filter on fatal vapor.

Making Smokes Safer

Tobacco contains alcohol, declares Prof. Neuberger of Berlin, who's experimenting to remove the alcohol from tobacco to make it harmless. He asserts poisonous element is not the nicotine as has generally been supposed.

In Court Case

Virginia Lee Corbin, Hollywood picture actress, has started court action to adjudge her mother insane. Legal fight promises to be an exceedingly bitter one.

$1,000 A DAY FOR HEROINE OF ATLANTIC FOP

OPERATOR'S WIDOW GIVES CHURCH AS MEMORIAL

Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran, widow of a Connellsville, Pa., coke operator, has made an outright gift of a church to her community at Dawson, Pa. The building, known as the Philip G. Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, has been erected at a cost of $325,000. This photo shows the completed edifice. Inset is Mrs. Cochran.

SCIENTISTS PREPARE FOR GALAPAGOS EXPEDITION

A party of scientists from the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, accompanied by independent scientists and natural history experts, are scheduled to depart from Los Angeles, Cal., soon on an expedition to the Galapagos Islands in the Pacific for explorations and research. This photo shows the schooner Georganna, the party's ship. Inset is Captain H. Carpelan, commander.

NATION WATCHES AS REMUS TRIAL GETS UNDER WAY

Principals in trial of "King of Bootleggers," now in progress at Cincinnati, O., which has attracted interest all over United States: Upper left, George Remus, alleged head of liquor ring, accused of slaying his wife, Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus (upper center). At right, top: Charles Taft, son of ex-President William Howard Taft, who is conducting the prosecution; center, Mrs. Maria Remus, mother of "King of Bootleggers"; lower, Judge Chester R. Shook, who is presiding over trial. Left lower: Romola Remus, daughter, and (lower center) Ruth Holmes Remus, sis daughter of man standing trial for his life.

WRITER AGREES WITH PARENTS

Madame Elinor Glyn, novelist, and creator of "it," has announced her belief in the success of companionate marriages, such as that just begun by Miss Josephine Haldeman-Julius, of Girard, Kan., and Aubrey Clay Roselle. She agrees with the parents of Josephine that it is a "great step forward." Photo above is the latest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Haldeman-Julius, taken since the marriage, and inset, Madame Glyn.

A SHEPHERDESS OF THE HILLS

Along almost any of the highways leading into the back country of San Diego county, California, one is apt to come upon this picturesque little shepherdess. Of true Spanish blood, she is a quaint relic of the romance of southern California's earlier days. Unmindful of the new day of airplanes and automobiles, she lives in memories. All day long she follows her flock among the quiet foothills, and at sunset brings them safely to the fold.

MEXICAN REBEL LEADER CAUGHT

General Arnufo Gomez, rebel leader in Mexico, has finally been caught and reported to have been executed by Calles forces. Mrs. Gomez (inset), who is a resident of Los Angeles, has expected to hear this news for some time.

ALIBI WILL BE DEFENSE OF ALLEGED STORE BANDIT HERE

Jury trial of Troy Bartlett, Clarksburg, W. Va., on an indictment for robbery in connection with the hold-up of The A. and P. grocery at Main and West sts., more than a month ago, opened in Common Pleas Court Wednesday morning with the state introducing testimony in an attempt to positively identify Bartlett as one of the two bandits.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wipert, operators of the store, star witnesses for the state, testified they were certain Bartlett was one of the two bandits.

The defense expected to introduce evidence proving an alibi for Bartlett on the night of the robbery.

In his opening statement to the jury, Attorney Marcus Shoup, defense counsel, declared testimony would be presented establishing Bartlett's innocence and the fact he was not in the city at the time the robbery took place.

It was expected to be shown that two hours before the hold-up, Bartlett had gone to Jamestown, driven an automobile from a man named Glass, which was parked in front of the Methodist Church, and driven it away for several miles until he was forced to abandon it.

Bartlett's father, B. W. Bartlett, and a Rev. Mr. McGuire, Clarksburg, were present for the trial.

ILLINOIS MAN DIES FROM SHOCK CAUSED BY AUTO ACCIDENT

RED CROSS ADVISES SOLDIERS TO BRING IN "BONUS" CLAIMS

Shock which resulted from being struck by an automobile Sunday morning, caused the death of Peter Sondgeroth, 72, of Mendota, Ill., at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Henry Pitstick, W. Third St., Wednesday morning at 9:20 o'clock. Mr. Sondgeroth was not thought to be seriously hurt in the accident, but his advanced age and shock caused his death.

He and his wife had made their home at intervals during the past year and a half with Mrs. Sondgeroth's mother, Mr. Sondgeroth was born in Mendota, Ill., and spent all of his life there with the exception of the period spent in Xenia.

His widow was before marriage Miss Anna Pitstick and their marriage took place forty-six years ago. Besides his widow, six children survive: Conrad, Henry and Peter Sondgeroth, all of Mendota; Mrs. Carrie Barr, Mendota; Mrs. Helen Kirch, and Mrs. Rose Miller, both of near Fowler, Ill. One brother, John Sondgeroth, and a sister, Mrs. Agnes Funsin, reside at Mendota.

The remains will be taken to Mendota, Thursday morning for funeral services and burial.

BOULEVARD LIGHTS BEING INSTALLED ALONG MAIN STREET

A dream of a complete boulevard lighting system for the business section of the city was being partially realized Wednesday when work of installing lights on the south side of W. Main St., between King and Detroit sts., was begun.

MERCHANTS along this side of the street have gone to considerable personal expense to install the lights and are hoping to set an example which will eventually be followed by other business houses.

Street lights will be installed from fifty to 100 feet part between King St. and the Allen building.

The work is expected to be completed within ten days or before the Christmas holidays. The new lights will be an attractive improvement to that section of the street, merchants believe.

The installation work is being done by the Dayton Power and Light Co.

POST MAY COMPILE RECORD FOR VETS

Attention of World War veterans in Greene County and relatives is called by Joseph P. Foy Post, No. 95, American Legion, to an effort being made by the local post to compile a complete directory, listing the names, addresses and army connections of all ex-service men, both living and deceased, in the county.

A blank form appears in this paper today, which veterans or relatives are requested to fill out and mail to Adjutant George Sudgen, Court House, Xenia, O. The blank will also appear in several more issues.

WIDOW REVENGES SELF ON JUDGE

Brooding over reverses suffered in a trial to collect damages for the death of her husband in 1910, prompted Mrs. Eliza Simmons, above, of Salt Lake City, mother of four children, to fire six shots at Judge Tillman D. Johnson, of the U. S. district court, as he sat on the bench. Arising from a chair usually occupied by the bailiff, she cried out, "I'll show you that I can get my rights," and began to fire. The judge's condition is not serious. She shot him because he had refused to reopen her suit to secure $25,000 damages.

Will Re-build Reds

C. J. McDermid, new president of the Cincinnati club of the National League, goes into office announcing a vigorous policy which, he predicts, will bring another pennant to the Ohio city.

WILL GIVE CONCERT TO BENEFIT POLICE AND FIREMEN HERE

City Manager S. O. Hale has authorized the J. T. O'Shaughnessy Concert Company, Springfield, O., to give a benefit concert at Jean K. Elwell Auditorium, Central High School Thursday night, December 8, a $1.50 under auspices of the city police and fire departments.

The Springfield company volunteered to give the concert, according to Manager Hale, who declared the offer was unsolicited.

Through the company's courtesy, policemen and firemen will divide 40 per cent of the gross receipts. The concert firm will assume all expenses and work in connection with the affair.

Reserve seats will cost $1 while the general admission price is fixed at 50 cents.

On account of the illness of the defendant, hearing scheduled to be given Jilla Jones, colored, on a year-old charge of possessing liquor, in Probate Court Tuesday, was continued by Judge S. C. Wright to Monday, December 5 at 10 a. m. The woman had pleaded not guilty.

CULLING EWES HELPS

Profitable sheep production depends to a large extent upon having a good fleece of wool produced and one or more lambs raised every year by each ewe. The flock of doubtful producers to be maintained at a loss.

These tons, Mr. Bell points out, seem to prove that the flock master, therefore, who is striving for efficient and economical sheep production will enhance his chances for maximum returns if he is careful to remove all low producing ewes from the flock.

There is a temptation, however, during the years of high wool and lamb prices, to keep such ewes in the flock, hoping that they may prove profitable. The results of a test at the Ohio Experiment Station in which thirty-nine ewes with low wool production records and doubtful lamb producing ability were used, showed that it was a losing proposition financially to yield to this temptation.

These ewes, which were high-grade of purchased type Merinos, were bred to Hampshire rams for the production of early lambs. In spite of the high price received for these early lambs, which favored

World's Champion Car

25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes!

AT Atlantic City Speedway between Oct. 18 and Nov. 4, three strictly stock Commanders each went 25,000 miles in less than 25,000 minutes—total elapsed time. Two roadsters each completed the 25,000 miles in 22,968 consecutive minutes—Sedan in 24,200 minutes. Nothing on earth ever traveled so far so fast!

The American Automobile Association certified to the time and disassembly of the cars following the run to establish their status as strictly stock models.

The Studebaker Commander now holds all official endurance and speed records for stock cars regardless of power or price!

What these records mean to you! This great achievement proves that it is now possible to purchase a truly great automobile at a modern's One-Price price. It proves that The Commander, because of its super-abundant power, will perform for many years, eagerly, easily, smoothly and with no labor or effort, any tasks placed on it.

Four basic elements of Studebaker superiority are proved by these world records:

1. SOUND DESIGN—Chief Engineer D. G. Ross, Research Engineer W. S. James and their able associates—backed by Studebaker's vast resources in laboratories and 860-acre Proving Ground—have created a car so superior as to merit its reputation as "the greatest achievement of post-war automotive engineering."

2. PRECISION MANUFACTURE—Studebaker cars are produced in plants equipped for the finest of precision manufacture—cars so accurately built you can drive 40 miles an hour the first day you own one.

3. SKILLED WORKMANSHIP—Studebakers are built by the most skilled and painstaking craftsmen under most expert supervision.

4. QUALITY MATERIALS—Only the highest quality of alloy steels and all other materials enter into the manufacture of Studebaker.

Such value as The Commander—such performance—such championship ability cannot be overlooked by the man who desires a full money's worth for his motor car dollars!

Money Love

By BEATRICE BURTON Author of "SALLY'S SHOULDERS" "HONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

LILY LEXINGTON, the spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is very fond of him, but realizes she is not in love with him the day after she accepts him. For she falls in love "at first sight" with a taxi driver that she sees down town when she is on her way to meet her church, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home that day, and for days afterward she manages to see him. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend ROY JETTERSON. He tells her to find a piston ring that he has invented, and he and his cab disappear from the streets.

Lily misses him terribly, and makes up her mind that she cannot marry Staley. But Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement, and the wedding day is set for June tenth, a few weeks off. Then, on the tenth of May, Lily goes out into the back yard to see the new chauffeur her mother has hired and finds—Pat France! He admits he has taken the job just to be near her, and he and Lily spend hours together every day. Finally CARRIE, a housemaid, who likes Pat pretty well herself, tells Staley Drummond that Lily has Pat's picture in her room, and goes with the same story to Mrs. Lexington. Then she leaves the house.

Lily offers to break the engagement when Staley comes to ask her about the story, but he refuses to let her, insisting that he cares too much for her to really believe the story. Then Mrs. Lexington takes matters into her own hands by telling Pat he'll have to take Carrie's place, and serve dinner that night when Staley comes. Pat refuses and Lily leaves the house with him. They go to his father's house, next door to his grocery, and are married the next day despite the protests of Lily's parents and Staley. On Sunday morning Lily lies in bed 'till noon, and FLORENCE, Pat's sister, says Pat is at the Jettersons' home. Lily, who doesn't like SADIE JETTERSON because she is a friend of Pat's old girl, ELIZABETH ERTZ, is angry because he has gone there. She falls asleep again, although it's noon, waiting for him to come home.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XXV

It was half past twelve when Lily opened her eyes again. Some one was knocking on her door, and from the hall came Florences light, pretty voice:

"Wake up, Lily! Dinner will be ready in half an hour."

Lily sat up in bed, blinking her eyes to get the sleep out of them. "Turn on the water in the tub, then, will you?" she called, drowsily. "And then come here a second." She reached for a cigarette and was lying flat on her back, sending a plume of smoke to the ceiling when Florence came into the room.

"Honey, which dress would you put on?" she asked, her eyes running over the clothes that she had hung in Pat's closet.

"This one," Florence answered, taking down the pink-and-orchid one that Lily had worn the day before. "I'm crazy about it."

"All right," its owner answered, with a wide yawn. "And if you look in my suitcase you'll see some orchid silk underthings and a pair of sandcolored stockings with orchid sandals. Just hang them in the bathroom for me, will you?"

Florence rummaged through the suitcase, exclaiming over the embroidered stockings, the hand-sewn silk lingerie, the sachet bags of violet-scented silk that were tucked into the corners.

"Everything you have is so beautiful," she said. "It would have just poisoned me to leave all the things that you must have left behind you when you married Pat. But you know what they say—'Ain't love wonderful'?"

Lily frowned, sitting on the edge of the bed and slipping her slender naked feet into her mules. She wondered why Pat had not come home from the Jettersons'.... Wouldn't it be dreadful if he found out now that he really liked that Ertz girl better than he thought he did? Sometimes men never discovered who the right woman was until they had married the "wrong" one.

"What do you suppose is keeping Pat so long?" she asked Florence, anxiously.

Florence shrugged her shoulders and held up a yellow silk princess slip to admire. "Oh, he always hangs around their house a lot," she said, absently. "Just look at the lace on this slip! I never saw anything so fine!" She sighed, folding it up and laying it back in the suitcase.

Lily sighed, too—but not because of the slip. "Why don't you run over to the Jettersons' and get him?"

Florence shook her head. "I've got to help mother with the dinner," she said. "I always make the salad and the coffee."

It was while she was combing her hair that Lily decided to run over to the Jettersons' house, herself to bring Pat home. "I may as well be friends with them first as last," she said to her bright image in the glass. "If I'm not, it's going to make between me and Pat. He likes them—so I'll have to pretend that I do, too, I suppose."

She went to the top of the stairs and called to Florence, to ask her to telephone for a taxicab for her.

"I'm going to drive over to Jettersons' for Pat," she told her.

"It won't take you ten minutes to walk there," Florence called up the stairway, and Lily frowned and did not answer. She wished that Florence wouldn't mix in—that she would do as she was told and not argue about it.

"Are you sure you want a cab?"

"Of course, I want a cab! Call it right away!" Lily spoke to her as she might have spoken to the long suffering Carrie in the old days at home.

And after another long pause, Florence obeyed.

HEALTH HINTS For Parents

The wise mother gives little heed to "diets" for her growing girl or boy, and worries not at all about their bowels. A little fig syrup gives all the help, and has none of the harm that's found in habit-forming laxatives.

Have you a girl or boy whose food doesn't seem to nourish as it should? Let them eat the same things, and just treat them to a daily spoonful of this rich, fruity syrup; watch them gain weight, see how their cheeks fill out and how appetite and assimilation improve! And a few drops will do remarkable things for an ailing infant.

California Fig Syrup is not expensive, all dealers charge but six cents for a generous bottle. Just make certain that it is the California product; say "California" in asking for it.

Try California Fig Syrup two weeks on any child, and let his altered appearance and actions tell the full story! — Adv.

To Xenia Milk Users

Due to the fact that dealers from Dayton, Cincinnati, Columbus and other large cities, have invaded the local milk producing territory, and by paying city prices for milk locally produced, have forced the prices of raw milk up to the city level, The Dairy Products Company is compelled to raise the price of milk accordingly.

Increased cost of production brought about by regulations in regard to the housing and care of dairy herds, and the high cost of feed, have also made it necessary for the dairy farmer to be paid higher prices for milk used for public distribution. The increased cost of milk to the consumer does NOT mean increased profits to the Dairy Products Company, but means that the dairy farmer is receiving a larger return on his raw product.

The Dairy Products Company has deferred action in regard to the increased cost of production until forced by circumstances to either increase the price of the milk or accept lower quality milk. Believing that our customers will unitedly sanction a small increase in cost rather than risk the dangers of any but the highest standard milk we will inaugurate a new scale of prices as follow:
